Michigan In Hemingway:
A Sense of Place
July 22 - 25, 1999

P.O. Box 953 · Petoskey, MI 49770

The July 21, 1999, centennial of Ernest Hemingway's birth provides an unusual opportunity to shed new light on the life and work of the Nobel Prize-winning author who spent his first 19 summers at Walloon Lake, near Petoskey in Northern Michigan. The Michigan Hemingway Society is working in conjunction with several other organizations, notably the Hemingway Foundation of Oak Park, Illinois, and the Little Traverse Historical Society (LTHS) to schedule social, cultural, and educational events to mark this important anniversary.

We will also be celebrating two other 100th birthdays in Petoskey. One is of our special member and friend, Irene Goldstein Gordon: "Irene was Ernest's date, a handsome girl exactly his age....." (Ernest Hemingway, A Life Story, Carlos Baker, p. 65) Irene and Ernie were good friends in Petoskey and Chicago in 1919-20, and, because her birthday is the day after his, he always wrote to her at least once a year to honor that occasion. The other is of the beautiful Perry Hotel where MHS members gather each October. (This year's dates: Oct. 16-18, 1999.)

Little Traverse History Museum will mount eight outstanding exhibits relating to the Hemingways: period clothing, furnishings from Windemere, family photographs, etc. The museum is normally open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday but will offer extended hours during Birthday Week. Admission: $1 per person. The museum is located in Petoskey's waterfront park.

This well-known volume of research on Hemingway's activities in Michigan has long been out of print. An important resource for Hemingway historians, the book will be offered for sale at the museum.

A French chef is preparing a $50-a-plate gala to honor the author's debut. Proceeds benefit the LTHS.

Centennial motorcoach
tour retraces 1916
Hemingway family journey to Michigan

It was the summer of 1916, time for the Hemingway family to make their annual pilgrimage from Oak Park to their northern Michigan cottage.

The four girls, with Marcelline -- the eldest at 19 -- in charge, boarded the train as usual. But Grace and her "three boys", Clarence, Ernest, and Leicester, opted for a more rugged adventure. They packed their gear and "drove all the way to Walloon Lake in Tin Lizzy." It was the family's first road trip to their summer retreat.

Clarence's journal and Grace's photographs document the journey, which will be traced via motorcoach during the Hemingway centennial celebrations this July. With Hemingway researcher/scholar Morris Buske narrating, the coach will leave Oak Park July 22, heading for Petoskey, Michigan, and tours of the Hemingway cottage. Following two days of Hemingway-related activities, the bus will return to Oak Park on July 25.

Buske's research culminated in publication of an article about the trip, scheduled for print in the April issue of Michigan History Magazine. He notes it took five days to cover the 487 miles, allowing time to replace flat tires and correct missed turns. Clarence scribbles in his journal that next time, he will take a compass!

Sponsored by the Michigan Hemingway Society, the motorcoach tour is the first event of centennial observances in the setting which proved so influential in Hemingway's earliest work. The Nick Adams Stories are filled with references to the woods and waters of Ernest's youth, many of which still remain untouched by developers. Tours of these sites, readings from the stories, visits to the newly-renovated Windemere, and talks by contemporary Michigan writers comprise the remaining activities of the observance, which is being held in cooperation with the Little Traverse Historical Society and North Central Michigan College.

Fees for the motorcoach journey are $75 per person, payable by June 15, 1999. To reserve space, e-mail mhs@freeway.net or phone 517-684-0753. Conference fees are $185 per person, discounted to $160 per person if paid by July 1. For a full itinerary, see <http://www.freeway.net/community/civic/hemingway> or request in writing from Michigan Hemingway Society, P.O. Box 953, Petoskey, MI 49770. Please enclose SASE.
